A New York Man Came Home After Six Years To Find A Pretty Girl In His House

He gave no one permission to occupy his home and yet there it was all lighted up, with the prettiest girl he ever saw sitting playing at the piano. He breaks into his own house like a burglar. No one else is in the house except the girl. He stands behind the hall curtains, listening to the girl playing, and all of a sudden she turns and sees his hand on the curtain. It is one of the strangest, most exciting stories ever told and holds one breathless until he learns what the girl is doing in the young clubman's house. It is by Harold MacGrath, who wrote The Man on the Box, and is in the October

British Beauty Doing War Work

Miss Muriel Perry.

Miss Muriel Perry is the capable quartermaster of the sailors and soldiers' free buffet at Victoria Station, London, where 200,000 men a month are fed at a cost of a penny a head. Miss Perry has been operating the buffet ever since the war began; first in a small way for Belgian refugees, and later on to feed soldiers from the front and traveling from one camp to another. This buffet costs about $5,000 a month and is strictly supported by voluntary subscriptions.

Man Hunts Keys All Night, Then Doesn't Need 'Em

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 25.—(Special).—An absent minded married man who is in the book publishing business dined late at the club the other night, and his companions urged him to remain all night. But, no; the husband "had a big day's work tomorrow" and he insisted on going home.

He caught a late street car to his suburban section of the city. When he reached the front door of his apartment he found that he had forgotten his key. He had left it at his office.

Determined to get home at all odds he waited a half hour for another street car and went to his office. He got there, to find that he had left the key to his office at the club. The club was three or four blocks away and he walked there.

After a search, with the aid of the night watchman and the head waiter, he found the office key. Then he returned to his office, got his house key, and caught another street car home.

He thrust the key into the front door, but the lock wouldn't turn. Then he discovered that he had gone away the morning before and left the door unlocked.

Pawning Wedding Ring Starts Feud in This Family

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 25.—(Special).—A dead mother's wedding ring was an important factor in a hearing before Justice Johannsen in Western police court when Raymond H. Scott, 41 years old, of Hudson Heights, was arraigned on a charge of striking his sister, Mrs. Anna E. Hershey.

It developed at the hearing that when the mother died her wedding ring was left to Mrs. Hershey, who took it from her mother's finger at the funeral. Financially embarrassed a few days ago, Mrs. Hershey pawned the ring. Learning in some manner that the ring was in a pawnshop, Scott secured the ticket and redeemed the gold band.

According to Mrs. Hershey, Scott came to her house and after reprimanding her for pawning the ring, struck her in the face. Scott denied this, and another sister, Mrs. Mary Gilmore, appeared in her brother's defense.

Scott was dismissed, but who will get the wedding ring was not made known.

UNCLE WIGGILY AND HIS PALS By Howard Garis

Uncle Wiggily and Jumbo's Paper. (Copyright, 1917, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

IN the hollow stump school all the animal boys and girls were writing their lessons with lead pencils on pieces of paper, slates being no longer fashionable.

That is, they all were except Jumbo Kinktail, the monkey boy brother of Jacko.

"Jumbo, why aren't you writing?" asked the lady mouse teacher, tying her tail in a pink ribbon bow and walking down toward the little monkey boy's seat.

"Cause I haven't got no paper, teacher," answered Jumbo.

"But! But!" exclaimed the lady mouse. "You must say you haven't got no paper, that means you have some paper."

"But I haven't teacher!" Hoarsest! exclaimed Jumbo.

"Then say so!" went on the lady mouse. "Just say, 'I have no paper!' Only you needn't say it this time, but next, as I can see now you have none. But why haven't you any paper for your lessons?"

"Please, I forgot to bring it to school," said Jumbo.

"Oh, dear me!" squeaked the lady mouse teacher. "Yesterday your brother Jacko forgot to sharpen his pencils at home and I had to send him out of school. Now you have forgotten your paper, and I shall have to send you back for it."

"Scamper along home, Jumbo, and get some pieces of white paper on which to write your lessons. And I shall have to keep you in a little while this afternoon to make you."

So Jumbo Kinktail, the little monkey boy, had to get his hat and coat and go out of school. And he did not feel very happy, for he did not want to stay in when the other animal boys went out to play marbles, tops and kite games. On and on through the woods skipped Jumbo, now hanging by his tail from a tall tree branch, and again swinging from limb to limb by his paw.

A Store Full of New Merchandise for Fall

In our ready-to-wear department on the third floor, we are ready to show you the latest styles. We have tried hard to make this event the best ever, and we feel sure we have succeeded.

Hundreds of new dresses at $21.75, $33.75 and $44.25—such a variety of styles, fabrics and colors in these three groups that one should experience little difficulty in finding just the style you have in mind; for street, for afternoon and for evening wear there is a host of models to choose from.

The materials range from the finest georgettes to the most substantial silks—and between the two there are soft, lustrous satins, bright, rustling taffetas, clinging crepe meteoers and many combinations in which georgette and crepe de chine figure prominently.

The three groups in particular that offer exceptional values are priced $21.75, $33.75, $44.25. Though of course there are many exclusive gowns and frocks at various prices up to $88.75, $118.00, $127.50.

Many styles of fall skirts, in plain and striped materials, plain taffetas and satins. Some are shirred, others show the high waistline. There are skirts with belts and some with the plain waistlines. Others are trimmed with buttons and many show large patch pockets. All sizes in the collection. Priced at $6.75, $8.75 and $14.75.

Ever a Happy Occasion, This WELCOME WEEK Has Been Quite the Most Enjoyable We've Ever Held

It's just like a big informal party at home. Hosts of our friends have been in. We've shown them the beautiful new things for Fall and Winter, and we cannot help feeling a bit proud at their enthusiastic approval of the results of our efforts to secure the best, most attractive merchandise we could possibly find.

There are but four more days—Welcome Week closes with the State Fair, Saturday night. Come if you possibly can while all the specially arranged displays are in place. Enjoy with us the pretty decorations. From a style viewpoint, it will be quite the most profitable visit you ever made. Come, we welcome you.

Scores of Autumn Suits in three groups at $24.50, $36.75 and $49.75. There are suits of serges, Borella cloth, poplins, gabardines, velours, broadcloth, silverstone and the crystal cloth. Colors are black, navy, taupe, dark brown, beet root and purple—with large collars, puffy pockets, wide cuffs, rippling girdles and many other graceful and effective style touches.

Very few stores offer so much that is new and wantable in women's tailored suits at $24.50, at $36.75, at $49.75. No other store can offer greater values, and there are many models—unusual in every fashion point—at all prices up to $107.25.

And So Many New Coats—Such a variety of styles that one may choose first for becomingness, coats of broadcloth, velours, silver-tones and many other soft rich weaves that help to make warmth and satisfaction. Some are belted all around like French models; others have high waist effects, and loose, flowing fashion lines that sweep gracefully with every step. The collars and cuffs and pockets are even larger, if anything. And there are coats in all sizes for women and for the miss, very broad varieties and unusual values, $36.75, $39.75, $61.25.

Many Exclusive Coats for afternoon, evening and general wear, are shown at prices ranging up to $157.25.

his automobile!" cried Jumbo in delight, and so it was. Jumbo came out from behind the tree and saw the bunny rabbit gentleman looking at a hole in the bologna sausage tire of his machine. This air had hissed out of the tire, making a noise like a snake.

"I'm sorry for you, Uncle Wiggily," said the monkey boy.

"What made your tire get a hole in it?" asked Jumbo.

"I guess I sprinkled too much salt and pepper on the bologna sausage to make it go faster," said Uncle Wiggily.

"The pepper must have bitten a hole. Well, here goes to mend it. By the way, Jumbo, why are you out of school at this hour?"

"I was sent home to get some paper I forgot," answered the monkey boy, sort of giggling, the end of his tail down in the sand, bashful like.

"That's too bad," said Uncle Wiggily. "But let me help you mend the hole in your sausage tire," said Jumbo to the bunny. "It won't much matter if I'm a little bit later getting back to school."

"No, I don't suppose it will," said Uncle Wiggily. No Jumbo helped him raise up the auto and put on a new tire and then, all of a sudden, Uncle Wiggily said:

"Why, Jumbo, you don't need to go home for your paper at all!"

"Why not?" asked Jumbo.

"Because," went on the bunny uncle, "here in the woods are a lot of white birch trees. Fill just grow off for you some of the white birch bark, which is just like paper. I'm sure the lady mouse teacher will tell you that."

So the bunny uncle gnawed off the white birch bark for Jumbo to use as paper, and then he took the monkey boy back to school in the mended automobile, and Jumbo was out of his class only a little while.

"I guess you needn't stay in, Jumbo," said the lady mouse teacher after school. "You helped Uncle Wiggily and he helped you and it was very smart of you to use birch bark for paper. Run along and play!"

So Jumbo did and if the swing doesn't go to sleep in the hammock and fall out so hard it bumps its nose I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and Jumbo's bag.
